TROUBLED WATERS

Usually consider a frigid, barren wasteland, the Antarctic is surprisingly beautiful in both terrain and wildlife. But, those who make the trip are usually people of unique character. Most would select some other, more comfortable, destination. The journey from the southern-most recesses of civilization to the Antarctic region requires two days of travel over what is, in the best of circumstances, very rough waters. There are two days of considerable discomfort both coming and going, but many who have made the journey feel it is well-worth the effort.

Christians journey to a far-greater place—a place of eternal splendor and glory. It is impossible for the finite mind to fully grasp the wonders of that heavenly realm. But, the grandest privilege of all will be to live in the light and glory of God, the Father, and His Son, Jesus Christ. There is great motivation to make the journey of faith to heaven. We can be assured, however, that there will be rough waters along the way. Such need not hinder our voyage if we but keep our eyes firmly fixed on the goal set before us.

One key to success is contained in the following quotation: "It is not how troubled the sea is that determines the course of your life; it is who the Pilot is." The psalmist wrote some very comforting words for the storm-tossed traveler in the 46th Psalm. He said, "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble. Therefore we will not fear, though the earth should change, and though the mountains slip into the heart of the sea; though its waters roar and foam, though the mountains quake at its swelling pride" (vss. 1-3). No doubt, you have seen a bumper sticker with these words: "God is my co-pilot." These well-intended words do not accurately express what is needed for our journey to heaven. Jeremiah warns us that "a man's way is not in himself; nor is it in a man who walks to direct his steps" (Jer. 10:23). That being the case, to live as though we are capable of navigating our own ship to heaven's shore is utter foolishness. Too many of us want to do it alone without the Lord unless, of course, we find ourselves in rough waters or stranded upon the rocks.

When we give God his rightful place in our hearts, we can be assured of His abiding presence. When storms do come our way, God will either quiet the storm or provide peace in the midst of the howling wind. Never forget the promise: "If God is with us, who can be against us?" (Rom. 8:31).
