PURITY IN THE HOME

The godless tide of immorality continues its relentless sweep across our nation. One of the primary victims of this onslaught has been the American family. Over the years, the landscape has changed to the point where we can hardly recognize what was once one of our most cherished institutions.

God's book gathers dust on the shelf while each man "turns to his own way" and practices that which is "right in his own eyes" (Is. 53:6; Jud. 17:6). God's plan for man's moral conduct has been largely ignored in preference to human wisdom. While God has given us the power of personal choice, we are most miserable when we reject God's instructions and follow after our own heart (Jer. 10:23). And, unless we follow God's way, "the end" of our journey will result "in the ways of death" (Prov. 14:12).

One of the many forces wreaking havoc the integrity of the home is a growing absence of sexual purity. Physical intimacy is a God-given bond of oneness for the marriage relationship. Marriage is an honorable institution, and its bed undefiled; but fornicators and adulterers will stand before God in judgment (Hb. 13:4). Sex outside of marriage is sinful. While the world distorts and perverts God's plan for moral purity in the home, we must hold to the standards by which we will be judged (Is. 5:20; Jn. 12:48). We do others a disservice when we remain silent, holding to a position of "tolerance" about matters of eternal consequence.

Pre-marital sex has done great harm to the exclusive trust needed in the marriage relationship. Instead of turning our heads the other way or enabling sinful behavior, we must teach God's place for moral purity. Paul said, "For this is the will of God, your sanctification; that is, that you abstain from sexual immorality; that each of you know how to possess his own vessel in sanctification and honor, not in lustful passion..." (1 Th. 4:3-5). Love and devotion is openly expressed and freely promised at most wedding ceremonies. Commitment is essential. But, what a gift it is to present to one's mate a body which has been "saved for marriage"! God does not require from us what is impossible. Purity in the home begins even before marriage vows are exchanged.

We will talk more about purity in the home in next week's bulletin article.
